

Frankenstein

Geoff Bradford

There is something moving in the night
The shadow of a hideous creature, his giant form hiding from the light
Passes by a house, creeps up to look inside
Staring at the family there with greedy yellow eyes
And tears are streaming down his face now as he cries

No escape, no escape, in this world I can never show my face, I'm condemned to live alone

Frankenstein, you're to blame, you created me then realized your mistake,
But now it's me out in the cold
Ahh-ahh-ahh, ahh-ahh-ahh, ahh-ahh-ahh ahh

Was a time that I was filled with hope
You made me with a heart so gentle, full of love, but like a child I woke Finding only fear and horror, endless solitude
Turned away from every shelter, hungry and pursued Nowhere left to turn except my hatred back on you

No escape, no escape, in this world I can never show my face, I'm condemned to
live alone

Frankenstein, you're to blame, make a mate for me and I will go away, or I'll kill each one you love
Ahh-ahh-ahh, ahh-ahh-ahh, ahh-ahh-ahh ahh